A Disney
STORYBOOK

For my children, Giselle and Brayden, for being the light that guides me. —N. B.

To my parents, Florence and Guy.

To my brother, Louis, and my nephews and nieces who wil reading this book as much as I enjoyed drawing it.

And to my love, Noé, for always supporting me and my art

Antonio Madrigal lived in a m house called Casita.
It was a big day at Casita. It was Antonio fifth birthday! It was also his Gift Day.

The Madrigals each had a special gif
a magical bedroom to match.

His cousin
Luisa had super strength.

His big sister,

And his oldest cousin, Isabela, grew flowers with every step.

Antonio's family gath around his new bed door and waited to s his gift would be.

“Yes, I understand you. Of course they ca come,” said Antonio.

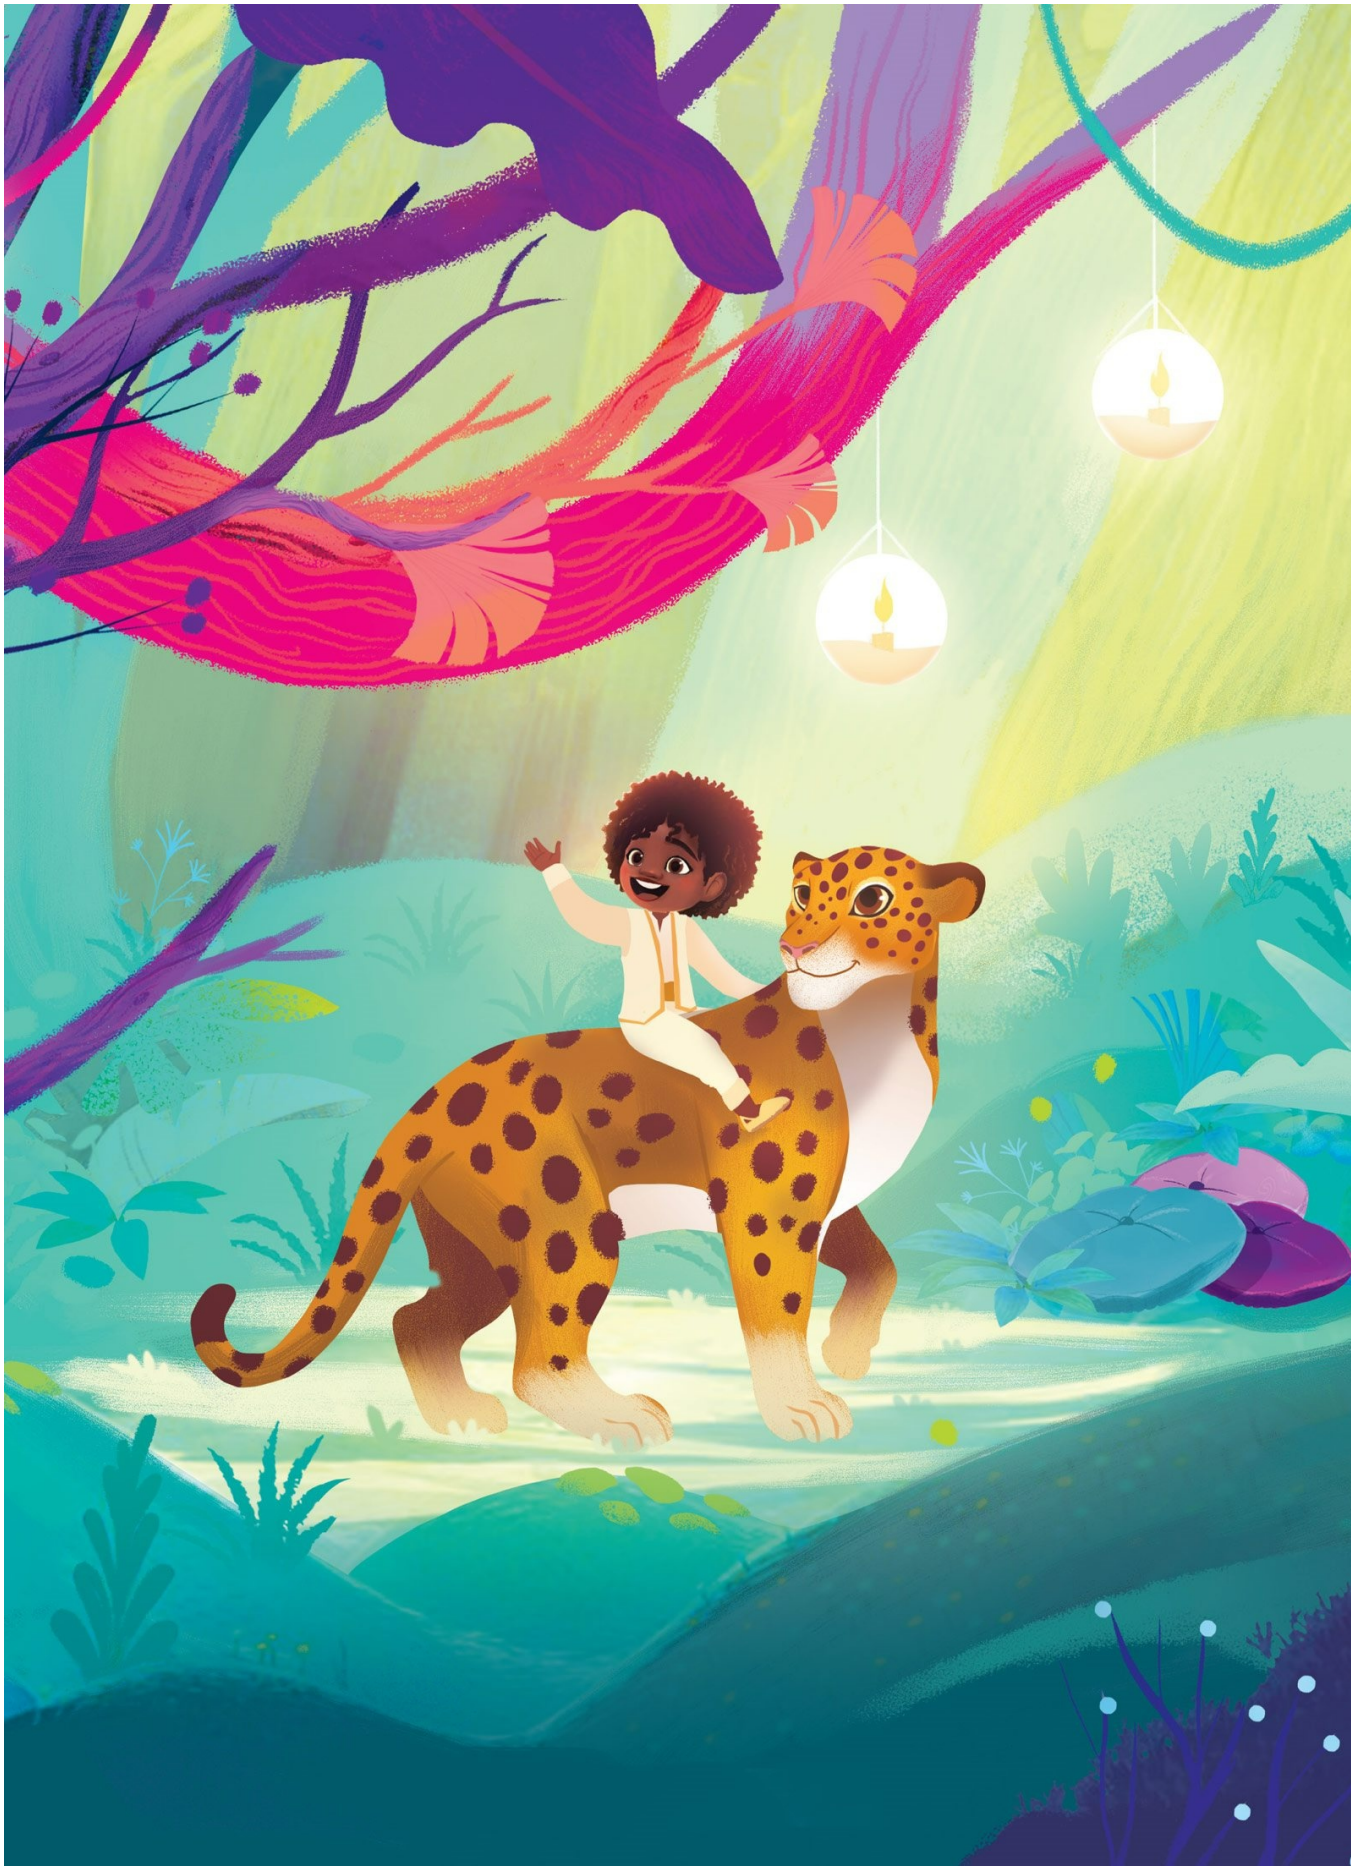
It was his gift! He was able to talk with anim

Abuela Alma hugged Antonio tight.
"I knew you could do it."

His new room was an endless rain forest. There was so much to see! The animals took turns showing him around.
ANTONIO



First he watched as the coatis went runnin and swinging through the trees.

Then the macaws joined him high in air for a bird's-eye view of his room be

He even joined the chigüiros for a snack.

And his new friends loved hanging around with Antonio. It was the best birthday ever!

Soon Antonio's family brought the rest of the celebration to his room. The Madrigals looked a with their eyes wide in wonder. It was a room like no other in Casita!

Luisa brought the biggest plate of coca

Antonio had ever seen.

"We can help you with that!" he said

His aunt, Julieta, had cooked arepas.
The macaws helped themselves.

The entire family danced and celebrate Antonio's gift.

With all the fun he was having,
Antonio had lost track of time.
"It's almost bedtime," said Antonio's mom.

Antonio let out a big yawn.
Soon all the animals were yawning, too.

“Good night!
¡Buenas noches!” said Antonio, falling asleep in his new room, surrounded by new friends.
